

Old Receipts Recall Early History Here

Mrs. Myrtle Brillinger, 28 Prospect St., made a unique discovery recently when she found a number of receipts, bills and accounts dating back to 1860 in a hidden recess in the wall of her home. While re-decorating her house, Mrs. Brillinger decided to have a partition removed and it was only then that the bills, which are of both historic and economic interest, were discovered. Most of the accounts were from Elwood Hughes who kept a store there almost 100 years ago.

Mrs. Brillinger's family has owned the property since 1802, when the land was granted to John Bogart on the condition that he get 20 families to settle there on approximately 1,000 acres. The house at 28 Prospect St. was the first to be built on the land and its ownership has never gone out of Bogart hands. It was the only property originally granted to the Bogarts still to remain Bogart property, according to Mrs. Brillinger.

Mrs. Brillinger is connected with two pioneer families, the Bogarts and the Rogers. Her aunt was Sarah Bogart, sister of Moses Bogart who was the father of Edgar Bogart.

Silas Armitage must be given credit for helping identify several of the people mentioned in the accounts. He was extremely interested when shown the accounts and expressed himself quite happy to assist in the identifications.

Several of the receipts, signed by Robert Alexander, teacher at the old Newmarket Common school, which stood, according to Mr. Armitage, where Alexander Muir public school now stands, were for tuition fees. The fee for tuition at that time was 25 cents a head for one month, according to the receipts.

Several of the receipts were from the old firm of William McMaster and Nephews, whose store Mr. Armitage says was where Harvey Lane's Drug Store now stands. "I knew William McMaster well," Mr. Armitage said, "in his store he carried everything—he even had a blacksmith outfit. He did as much business as all the stores in Newmarket put together do now. At that time all business was transacted in terms of pounds, shillings and pence (one of the accounts totalled 227 pounds, 19 shillings, one penny, or $911.82, while several gave no alternative). All the people had accounts with the store so that they

Santa Claus Parade Here Saturday, 2 p.m.

Santa Claus will parade down Main St. Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. The parade will start on North Main St. at 2 p.m. and will continue south on Main St. to Water St. and then back up Main St. to the Trinity United church where Santa will hold court on the church lawn.

If the weather is unsuitable, Santa will stop in the Newmarket market hall. He has sent word that he has a gift for each child who comes up to see him.

Included in the parade will be the Newmarket Children's Band, and many of Santa's helpers dressed in gay costumes.

Participants in the parade, including members of the Canadian Legion branch, are asked to meet at Dixon Penell Co. to receive their costumes as soon after 1 p.m. as possible so as to be ready to parade by 2 p.m.

100 Children Are On List, Urge Aid To Basket Fund

H. E. Lambert chairman of the Christmas basket committee of the Newmarket Lions club, reported that there were approximately 100 children on the Lions club list who will receive Christmas baskets from the club this year. He said that expenditures would be heavier this year and urged support of the club's subscription list.

The club met in the parish hall of St. Paul's Anglican church Monday. Christmas music, led by James B. Walker, shared in the program with a quartet of H. E. Lambert, G. L. Manning, F. A. Lundy and T. B. Scott.

New members inducted into the club were R. A. Hands, Walter S. Johns, Eugene McCaffrey, Isaac Lindbaum and Walter Richmond. Aubrey G. Seythes was re-instated as a member.

It was announced that the club was assuming the cost of cod liver oil for distribution by the public health nurse, Miss Helen B. Gardner, to families in need of it.

Disapprove Of Beer Rooms Suggest Sale At Meals

On Friday, Dec. 6, the Newmarket Citizens' Forum discussed the problem of liquor and its control. The forum members felt that Ontario's liquor control system is reasonably satisfactory except where beverage rooms are concerned.

It was considered that beverage rooms encourage excessive consumption and that many of them are breeding places for vice. In the opinion of the Newmarket forum, the beverage rooms should be abolished and beer and wines made available for consumption with meals in restaurants.

The forum expressed the view that unless there is an actual shortage, rationing should not be made permanent. It is believed that any attempt to curtail consumption by arbitrary measures only results in creating an "artificial appetite" on the part of a portion of the drinking public.

The forum replied in the affirmative to the question whether temperance education should be carried on in the public schools. They felt, however, that the value of formal teaching might be lost if it were not continued into the adult field by means of radio and newspaper articles using every means available to bring before the people the "pernicious effect of intemperance."

CHRISTMAS RECITAL

In keeping with the spirit of the Christmas season, a series of half-hour recitals of Christmas carols will be broadcast from the memorial chimes of Trinity United church by Herman G. Fowler, mus. bac, R.M.T., organist and choirmaster of the church. The recitals will begin at 4.30 p.m. and 7.30 p.m. on December 19, 20 and 21.

BASTEDO LEADS SCHOOL VOTE

Elected to the public school board for 1947 are J. B. Bastedo, (left), who headed the polls with 571 votes, and Fred Hall, right, who polled 493 votes. Dr. G. E. Case, who polled 495 votes, served on the board in 1946 and was re-elected.

PUBLISH FRIDAY

Next week's issue of the Newmarket Era and Express will be published Friday instead of Thursday. The change in publication date has been made because of the large pre-Christmas paper. Correspondents and advertisers are asked to have their copy in as early as possible because of the heavy mails and slow delivery. Display advertising deadline is Wednesday noon, classified advertising deadline is Thursday noon for this one issue.

FRED ANDREWS DIES WHEN HURT BY TEAM

Attempting to head off a runaway team of horses, Frederick Andrews, 69, fell on the road and fractured his skull Tuesday. He died without regaining consciousness.

Born at Queensville, about two miles from the farm he worked for 48 years, Mr. Andrews was the son of pioneer parents from Devonshire, England. An Orangeman and a Free Mason, he was once a member of the Progressive Conservative Association.

Surviving beside his second wife, Jennifer Andrews, is a daughter, Mrs. Sadie Rose and a son, Morley. Five brothers and two sisters also survive.

Newmarket Dramatic Club To Stage Christmas Carol

1837 Rebellion Told By Eyewitness Here

A special feature of this week's issue of The Newmarket Era and Express is the publication of the first part of a historical manuscript dealing with the early settlement of the district about Newmarket.

A copy of the manuscript was found among the belongings of Orville S. Briggs, who died in Sharon last January. The editor of The Era and Express is indebted to Dr. Robert W. Breuls, executor of Mr. Briggs' estate, for permission to print the manuscript. Dr. Breuls is renovating the Briggs' property preparatory to moving there.

The manuscript, except for the introduction, is written by Titus Willson whose family came to Canada from the United States in 1800, and settled at Sharon in 1810. The introduction is apparently written by Willson's son. The manuscript is not complete but what there is of it tells an interesting story.

The part of the manuscript written by the senior Willson tells of his work in developing this district, and gives a personal report of the rebellion of 1837 as it appeared in Newmarket and vicinity. Because of the length of the document, it will appear in sections, the first of which will be found on page three.

It was in 1843, just over 160 years ago, that Dickens' Christmas Carol first became popular with the crowds of London, and its popularity has grown steadily ever since. The wonderful fable has been translated into practically every language on earth and has received universal approval and applause. It has appeared in an endless number of editions, and has probably been dramatized as often as any seasonal play ever written.

Coronet magazine says, "Ever since its first triumphant appearance, people everywhere have never stopped talking about A Christmas Carol—nor will they ever tire of telling and retelling the beloved tale of old Ebenezer Scrooge, Tiny Tim, and the benevolent ghosts. For A Christmas Carol is no longer a story, it is a time-honored tradition."

Next week the Newmarket Dramatic Club will present A Christmas Carol, with Alex. Eves, who appeared in the play, Here Comes Charlie, showing his versatility in the role of Scrooge.

Dr. C. E. VanderVoort is directing the play, which will be presented in the town hall on Dec. 19 and 20, with a special free dress rehearsal for school children on Dec. 18. Jack Higginson will be stage manager, while Joan Widdifield will preside at the piano. Miss Evelyn Denner will direct a curtain raiser.

The characters in order of their appearance are: Spirit of Christmas, reader; Ebenezer Scrooge, Alex. Eves; Bob Cratchit, Edward Millen; Collector, C. E. VanderVoort; Fred, Bob Birrell; Marley, J. B. Bastedo; Ghost of Christmas Past, Jim Findlay; Young Girl, Dorothy Thompson; Young Scrooge, Ken. Johns; Ghost of Christmas Present, Frank Rogers; Ghost of Christmas to Come, Herb. Duncanson; Bob Cratchit's wife, Grace Smith; two little Cratchit children, Patsy Brown and Margaret Ann Crowder; Peter Cratchit, Bob Koffend; and Tiny Tim, Bobbie Findlay.

FOUR M'S TO GUIDE VET HOCKEY DESTINIES

May, MacDonald, McIntosh and Molyneux form the new executive of the Newmarket Veterans' Sports Association. Bert Ward has resigned from his position as president owing to ill health. He will head for Florida shortly.

Doug. May will take over as president of the association, with the added duties of assistant coach of the hockey club. Jack "Ceegeers" MacDonald will manage the club assisted by Alex. McIntosh, while Lawrence Molyneux will assume the headaches of coach.

Dr. J. C. R. Edwards will be the club physician.

G. M. Byers Heads Polls For Third Successive Year

For the third consecutive year, George M. Byers led the polls in the Newmarket-municipal elections which saw two new members of council, Thomas Birrell and H. J. Luck, named to office. Mr. Byers polled a total of 715 votes, leading Frank Bowser by 37.

R. C. Morrison was third at the polls with 657; Mr. Luck fourth with 561; Mr. Birrell fifth with 494; and Mrs. Caroline Edwards sixth with 444. Aubrey Seythes was seventh with 383; Mrs. Gladys Mitchell eighth with 215; and W. E. Andrews ninth with 148.

The elections for the members of the public school board saw J. B. Bastedo lead the polls with 571, followed by Dr. G. E. Case with 495 and Fred L. Hall with 493. L. H. Bovair, chairman last year, polled 412 and Mrs. V. A. Seldon polled 388.

Voting was light, an estimated one-third of the voters marking their ballots. There was little of the activity which attended other elections.

C.F.L. Union Wins Vote At Davis Leather Plant

"We are very pleased that the union that has worked so well with the management for a number of years has been returned," said R. Burns Lind, general manager of Davis Leather Co. in a short interview with The Era and Express following the announcement of the results of the vote at the Davis Leather plant on Saturday morning. "We are also happy that we can all get back to work again."

In the past year the company has had an agreement with the Newmarket Leather Workers, C.F.L., but the contract expired, and on Saturday the Davis workers chose between that union and the International Fur and Leather Workers, C.I.O., by a vote under the supervision of labor board officials. The petitioning union was defeated by a vote of 138 to 121.

"We are in favor of purely Canadian trade labor movements rather than trade union movements operated on an international scale. It is always the intention of the management to deal fairly and amicably with all its workers," said Mr. Lind.

The results of the election were tabulated as follows, number of names on the list prepared by the company following instructions of the labor board, 280; number struck off this list, 2; number of names added to the list, 0; number of names challenged on a check of the list, 9; number of persons declared eligible, 269; number of challenged names struck off list, 0; number of challenged voters to receive segregated ballots, 9; number of ballots segregated by the returning officer, 9.

Coroner's Jury Absolves Doctors In Nichol Death

A coroner's jury, consisting of foreman Arthur D. Evans, Eagle St., Bert A. Budd, Max Boag, J. L. R. Bell and J. A. Brummer, found on Monday night that Roy Nichol, Bradford, had died of heart failure. Coroner Dr. L. W. Dales presided.

Nichol, according to the evidence, died in York County hospital on Oct. 29, 1946, while an anaesthetic was being administered by Dr. G. E. Case, preparatory to an operation for the removal of tonsils by Dr. B. L. Sinclair, Bradford.

Dr. Sinclair testified that Nichol had come to him about two weeks before the operation, and had complained of frequent attacks of tonsillitis, and that after a detailed physical examination he had advised the operation and made the necessary arrangements with Dr. Case. He said that he had examined Nichol again just before he had gone into the operating room for any heart or lung abnormalities.

The administration of the ether progressed in a normal way at first according to the witness.

Mr. And Mrs. Sid. Legge Mark Silver Anniversary

Over 100 relatives, friends and neighbors gathered in the Boy Scout hall on Friday night, Dec. 7, to celebrate the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Legge, Newmarket. Guests were present from Toronto, Stayner, Uxbridge and the surrounding district.

The evening was spent in dancing and playing bridge. A lunch was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Legge were called to the platform, while the strains of Here Comes The Bride were played. Mrs. Legge was presented with a bouquet of flowers.

Mr. Leonard Little read the address and presented Mr. and Mrs. Legge with a living-room table and lamp.

Young Hopefuls

Lessons By Imitation

Little Mae is five years old. She takes delight in imitating and mimicking people. Her antics have been cause for embarrassment many times. The present situation is really serious. Little Mae is imitating the odd manners of the new lady next door with such accuracy that the entire neighborhood recognizes her characterization. Mae has begun to talk with her entire face, stretching her mouth, raising her brows, and wrinkling her forehead just to say, "Hello." All her actions are exaggerated. She employs elaborate movements and gestures just to sit down. She picks up her fork with a flourish, and so on.

Mae is fascinated by the neighbor's frilly manner and imitates her frills in a manner definitely, too-too theatrical. Never-the-less, with the exception of the lady next door, the entire neighborhood knows too well the character Mae is portraying. The new neighbor has intimated that Mae is a rather peculiar acting child; but, fortunately, hasn't yet associated Mae's play-acting with her own characteristic behavior.

Children learn by imitation. They copy what they see, and the more dramatic the people and events, the quicker they take them over. Any unusual quality of speech, manner, and behavior is certain to be marked and imitated. That is why we should be careful about the language we use, the manners we employ, the character we present in the presence of children.

The trait of imitation continues throughout life, but it is at its peak in childhood. In the presence of children, we must be careful not to do anything we do not want the children to do. We must always try to be the kind of human being we want the children to be—remembering that they imitate goodness almost as well as they imitate the less desirable expressions of those about them.

CORONER'S JURY

nesses. However during the normal struggle or "excitement," the patient suddenly went rigid, relaxed and stopped breathing, they said. At that time the patient had no pulse, Dr. Sinclair said. Artificial respiration was applied and stimulants were given. Dr. J. Gordon Cock was called in and he assisted in operating the oxygen machine. Artificial respiration was continued for about an hour and a half, he said.

"During the period of excitement the patient's face becomes pink and did not alter for some time," Dr. Sinclair said. "Then it became white. It never became blue. If, as suggested, there was a dilation of the right side of the heart, that would be consistent with the way in which death occurred, in my opinion." He said that the patient had drawn about 12 deep breaths after he had relaxed, although no pulse could be found.

Dr. Case corroborated the evidence given by Dr. Sinclair, and said that artificial respiration had been continued until about 11:45. He said that the rate of administration of the anaesthetic had not been unusually fast, and that less than two ounces had been administered when the patient died. An average adult needs about four ounces, while returned men often need even more, he said. "I am convinced that he died of a heart spasm," Dr. Case said.

He said that it had been his experience that repeated attacks of tonsillitis will affect the heart, although he did not think that Nichol had a bad heart condition.

Dr. Cock corroborated Dr. Sinclair's evidence with regard to his own part in the case. He said that every effort was made to revive the man.

Miss Hilda Greer, x-ray technician at York County hospital, testified that on Dr. Sinclair's instructions she had taken chest x-rays of the body, and she projected these on a screen for the benefit of the court.

Miss Mildred Sellers testified that she had been the nurse on duty in the operating room at the time of the operation, and she corroborated the statements of the doctors concerning what took place. She said that the efforts made to revive the man had been "very extensive."

H. W. Nichol, father of the youth, said that Roy was "quite husky and strong, and had never had any heart trouble of any kind. We are not out to get anything through this inquest," he said, "we just want to know what happened to our boy."

Dr. I. H. Erb, well known Toronto pathologist, said that from the x-rays the heart seemed to be dilated, that the right lung did not seem to have as much air in it as is normal, and that the air seemed to have escaped from the lung into the chest cavity. He said that it was not possible to say when these things occurred.

"The most significant thing to be found from the x-rays seems to be the enlarged heart, which would indicate that the patient had died of heart failure," he said that in his opinion the speed of the anaesthetic had not been exceptional.

Miss Greer described the enlargement of the heart as "substantial." All of the doctors present said that it was the first case of its kind in their experience.

The verdict of the jury read as follows:

1. We, the jury, from the evidence submitted, are of the opinion that Roy Nichol died Oct. 29, 1946, at York County hospital of heart failure evidenced by a spasm and sudden collapse during the administration of anaesthetic.

2. The evidence indicates that normal and usual preparations and examinations were made by the presiding physician and we have been submitted no facts to show negligence on the part of those concerned.

3. We recommend, in addition to the normal preliminary examination where possible and available the use of the fluoroscope or similar equipment to check for a possible heart condition, or failing this, an examination by the assisting doctor.

Resident Here In 1810 Settler Tells Life Story

The Era and Express prints below the first part of a manuscript dealing with the history of the family of Titus Willson which came to Canada in 1800 and settled at Sharon in 1810. The opening part of the narrative is written by Willson's son, and is continued by Willson himself. Besides dealing with the early settlement of this district, Willson's narrative tells of the rebellion of 1837 as it was witnessed in and around Newmarket.

—Editor

To Alfred Willson of the City of Toronto, in the Dominion of Canada, P.L.S., this narrative is dedicated:

I am aware that there is a difficulty attending the selection of a starting point in a narrative of this kind; but in this I shall state the tradition of my father.

According to him our family is of Norman descent, having followed William the Conqueror into England about the year 1070, and settled in Northumberland. From this some of the family followed Wm. III into Ireland about 1690 and settled in the north of that kingdom. Our history now begins:

About the middle of last century, there lived in the City of Carrickfergus, in the County of Antrim, one Hugh Willson, a merchant, who dealt largely in the linen trade as his father had done before him. This Hugh Willson had two sons, Hugh, grandfather of the Reids of Sharon, and John, grandfather of R. T. Willson, and others, to whom he gave a liberal education. Hugh, (the older of the brothers), was intended for the church, Presbyterian, to which the family belonged, but to which he never acceded. In consequence of the long war between England, France and Spain, as well as the continued trouble in Ireland, Hugh (the father), was reduced and had nothing to give his sons. Hugh, the younger gave up the idea of the church, married and settled on a small farm in the County Down in the year 1768, over 100 years ago. My father, the first born of the aforesaid John, was born in County Down (I think). Soon after this, my grandfather left Ireland and came to America. I forget what became of my grandmother, but I recollect, as told me, that my father, then an infant, was brought over to America by his uncle Hugh, in whose family he had been then some time living. This was in the year 1775, the beginning of the Revolutionary War between England and the United States of America. My father was then seven years old.

On arriving at New York, they proceeded up the Hudson River to Poughkeepsie, the capital of Dutchess County, and 12 miles east, near Connecticut, where they found my grandfather married to the woman who was afterwards the mother of David and John Willson and Anne and Mary. There my father lived with my grandfather until about 1788 when the old man died. After this event my father took charge of the farm (a rented one), and the family. About two years after, he married Mary Titus, the eldest daughter of Austin Titus, a Quaker preacher, and a very worthy man. He had 12 children and she was the eldest. In July, I believe the 10th, in 1791, my late brother John was born; and on the 5th day of April, 1793, on a Tuesday, it is recorded that I, Richard Titus Willson, first saw the light.

Before proceeding further with the narrative, I will say something about the family of my grandfather, Austin Titus. I have learned that his ancestors came from England soon after the British took the state of New York from the Dutch, and they settled on Long Island where my grandfather was born. When a young man, he wended his way to Dutchess County and settled in a place called "Nine Partners". Here he married Wate Giddley, a Dutch woman whose ancestors came from Holland, at the time that the state of New York belonged to that nation. My grandfather was a blacksmith by trade, and when I first knew him, he lived upon his own farm.

As I before stated, he had 12 children, five sons and seven daughters. When he died, he appointed one Daniel Dean, a leading Quaker, his sole executor; who was to sell the farm &c. and divide the proceeds among the children, all of whom were then grown up. He did the selling-part but kept the money. He took the benefit of the Insolvent Act which had just come into operation, made all his property, and what he had belonging to others, over in some way to his son, who soon after went to New York and opened a large store and soon became a wealthy merchant. His father lived with him and helped him in his business and these children, my mother among them, lost all. The family is at present greatly scattered about the States and Canada: that is to say, their offspring, as the old stock are all dead.

Continuation of my father's biography, &c.

From 1793 until 1798, my father remained upon the old farm in Nine Partners. In the latter year he gave up the farm and sold off his stock &c. and moved with his family consisting of his wife and five children to the City of New York. There he bought a share in a fine sloop called "The Farmer", and made several trips to the West Indies, where he had been several times before while on the farm, as it was a good market for much of their produce, such as flour, pork, horses &c.

In the spring of 1800, having sold his share in The Farmer, he started for Canada. We came by sloop to Albany, thence by wagon to Schenectady, where my father joined with one Daniel Beadle and bought a boat of about five tons. On this, an open boat, besides the effects of both families, there were three women, four men, 12 children, six belonging to each of the two families, (Hiram R. Willson having been born the winter before). In this boat we passed up the Mohawk River as far as where Reids now stands; thence by a short military canal to Wood Creek; down that to Oneida Lake; thence across that and down the river to Oswego; and from there across the foot of Lake Ontario to Kingston in Canada. This was the only route by which a family could come from Albany to Kingston, and we found it a long tedious one, especially considering it was mostly performed in the wet month of April.

From Kingston we proceeded west about four miles and stopped at one Joseph Ferris's, with whom my father was acquainted in Dutchess county and who had been in Canada for four or five years. There we stopped, but Mr. Beadle went on some 40 miles further up the Bay of Quinte. Here my father worked on Mr. Ferris's farm for two summers and taught school in the neighborhood in the winters. In the spring of 1803, we moved upon Wolfe Island, where we remained until the summer of 1810. While on this island, we suffered all the hardships and privations to which a large helpless family in a new country with annual fever and ague, is incident. In 1810 we bid adieu to Wolfe Island and removed to East Gwillimbury, and leased that farm opposite the Temple in Sharon (then Hope).

Here the family, excepting myself, resided until the close of the war. In the spring of 1815, my parents, with the younger members of the family removed to that farm on the east side of Yonge St., known as No. 1, opposite Montgomery's Tavern, which farm belonged to the late Hon. Wm. Allen of Toronto. There they resided either three or four years, when they returned to East Gwillimbury, and there remained until my father's death which happened Jan. 3, 1828, and my mother continued to reside there until her death, June 3, 1857. They are both lying in the burying ground at Sharon. When my father died he was 60 years of age, and my mother was 89, less two days.

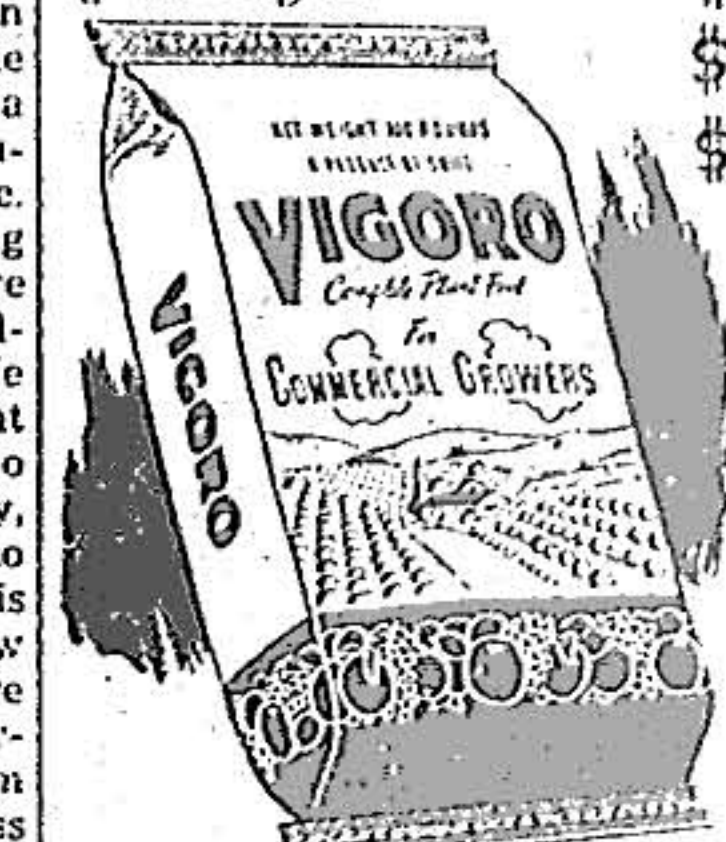

This ends the biography of Hugh Willson and of Mary, his wife, except that when she died she left, then living, 16 children, including sons-in-law and daughters-in-law, 92 grandchildren, 90 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild.

An account of the life and doings of Richard Titus Willson from the beginning of the year 1812, as the family history is so blended together that it may be taken as one too about that period.

Some Changes Noted In County Council Personnel

Only five municipalities in York county have yet to return their county council representatives for 1947. There are 52 members of the county council and 44 are already elected to office.

In Markham township, Deputy-Reeve Albert Reesor was defeated by Dalton Rummy. There are two changes in North York township, one by resignation and the other by the defeat of the 1946 office holder. One change in Mimico, two changes in Etobicoke, and three changes in Scarborough, to give the latter municipality entirely new representation at 57 Adelaide St.

York township will see at least three changes but in the other three municipalities no changes are expected. The results would seem to indicate either satisfaction with the elected representatives or a shortage of candidates who have the extra time needed to attend county council.

Here is the way the 1947 York county council shapes up at present.

Georgina: Reeve J. D. Sibbald, acclaimed (no change).

Sutton: Reeve William Pugsley re-elected (no change).

North Gwillimbury: Reeve Harold Glover re-elected, Deputy-Reeve William King acclaimed (no change).

East Gwillimbury: Reeve Walter Proctor and Deputy-Reeve Allen Shaw acclaimed (no change).

Newmarket: Reeve Arthur D. Evans, Deputy-Reeve Joseph L. Spillette acclaimed (no change).

Aurora: Reeve C. E. Sparks, Deputy-Reeve A. A. Cook acclaimed (no change).

King: Reeve Lorne Goodfellow, Deputy-Reeve Norman MacMurphy acclaimed (no change).

Whitechurch: Nominations yet to be held, present reeve and deputy likely to be acclaimed.

Vaughan township: Reeve Boynton Weldrick, Deputy-

Reeve John Hostrawser acclaimed (no change).

Markham township: Reeve Charles Hooper acclaimed, Deputy-Reeve Albert Reesor defeated by Dalton Rummy (one change).

Markham village: to be held yet.

Stouffville: Reeve R. V. Nolan acclaimed (no change).

Leaside: Reeve Tracy Manes acclaimed, Deputy-Reeve W. S. Morgan re-elected over ex-Reeve Robt. Clark (no change).

Swansea: Reeve Elmer Brandon and Deputy-Reeve C. D. Cameron acclaimed.

Forest Hill: Reeve F. G. Gardiner, Deputy-Reeve John Rowland acclaimed (no change).

North York township: Reeve George Mitchell, Deputy-Reeve J. Ross acclaimed, Deputy-Reeve W. I. Hearst retired, succeeded by Thos. Deacon, Deputy-Reeve Quigley defeated by ex-Deputy-Reeve Nelson Boylan (two changes).

East York: Reeve John Warren acclaimed. Election for deputy next Saturday.

Long Branch: Reeve T. F. Carter and Deputy-Reeve Lawrence Iles acclaimed (no change).

Mimico: Reeve Hugh Griggs re-elected, Deputy-Reeve R. McIntock elected (one change).

New Toronto: Reeve Wm. McDonald re-elected, Deputy-Reeve J. Strath acclaimed (no change).

Scarborough township: Reeve Alan Wheeler retired. Newcomer to municipal life, R. H. Palmer, elected over ex-Reeve Clutterbuck and Deputy-Reeve Jones.

Two new deputies: Oliver Crockett and R. J. Sharpe (two changes).

York township: Reeve Farquhar McRae retires. Three deputies announce intention to run. At least three changes slated.

Etobicoke: Deputy-Reeve Clive Sinclair defeated Reeve Butler, Alex. Bissett deputy-reeve (two changes).

Weston: Reeve Thompson and Deputy-Reeve Foster Rowntree acclaimed (no change).

Woodbridge: To be held.

Advertising copy and correspondence must be sent early.

Smith, Fisher Out, Four New Members Named By Voters

In a light vote on Monday, three newcomers to 1946 council were returned by the election. Dr. Crawford municipal life, one ex-councillor and two members of the Ford Rose, member of council the past two years, headed the polls, establishing a lead in every sub-division but one. Councillor Stewart Patrick, member of the 1946 council, ran in fifth place while Councillor A. N. Fisher, veteran council member and chairman of the finance committee, and Councillor Rod Smith, chairman of the property committee, went down to defeat.

Ex-Councillor Thomas Swindle, defeated in the 1944 elections, returned to municipal life with a large vote to take down second place. Mr. Swindle is employed at Collis Leather and is chairman of its labor committee.

Victor Jones, a resident of Aurora for many years and a member of the fire brigade, took third place, four votes ahead of Charles Davies, another well known resident of Aurora, painter and decorator and treasurer of the Aurora branch, Canadian Legion. John Sisman, factory executive, president of the Aurora branch, Canadian Legion, and youngest candidate for office, was in sixth position.

The results, except for first and second place, were not known until the last ward results were in, only 27 votes separating five of the candidates. The campaign was quietly carried on and there was little of the usual election flurry.

Result by wards in the Aurora municipal elections was:

	Ward 1	Ward 2	Ward 3	Ward 4	Ward 5	Total
Dr. C. Rose	75	83	115	59	64	396
T. Swindle	53	66	97	79	51	346
V. Jones	64	64	89	60	41	318
C. Davies	63	70	76	47	58	314
S. Patrick	56	60	102	60	33	311
J. Sisman	60	69	84	38	56	307
A. N. Fisher	50	60	87	53	41	291
R. V. Smith	48	57	72	46	42	265

By-Law Is Passed By Vote Of 2 To 1

By a vote of two to one, Aurora voters authorized the spending of up to $285,000 by the municipality for a new public school. The large majority came as a surprise to the school supporters who feared a silent vote which failed to materialize. In view of the amount of the expenditure involved the number of voters eligible to vote took the matter casually, with many eligible voters failing to cast a ballot. Many complaints were registered at the polling booths. The 1945 voters' list was used, and many failed to check it.

News of the win was greeted with applause at the meeting of the Aurora Home and School Association, whose members have done much to secure the favorable vote for the project. "The result is very gratifying," Dr. C. J. Devins, chairman of the Aurora public school board, said. "We have the green light now and can make our plans accordingly. The public can be assured we won't spend a cent more than is needed." With nominations for a new school trustee scheduled for Monday at 7 p.m., the 1947 board will not be complete until either a candidate receives an acclamation or the seat is won at the polls on New Year's Day. The board will have the present chairman of 27 years' experience, two members in their second year, and two presently elected members of no school board experience, in addition to whoever is elected. Cost of election is estimated at around $85, if one is needed.

Parents Said To Share Blame For Juvenile Errors

"You never get very much out of life, unless you put something into it. Too many parents haven't enough time to hear their children's troubles or try to understand them. No children are wilfully bad, it is not the children but the adults who have slipped when juvenile delinquency ensues," William Case, Toronto insurance executive and Aurora resident, told members of the Aurora Home and School Association at the annual "Fathers' Night" meeting on Monday.

Mr. Case was introduced by T. A. M. Hulse and he spoke on teen-age problems and how they were being solved in North Toronto. He is president of the advisory committee and organizer of "The Friday Inn," a 900-member teen-age club which meets at North Toronto C.I. weekly. The club has its own orchestra and newspaper, and it is entirely run by youngsters who have made a success of the undertaking. "Put the kids on their own, make them honor the test, and give them good supervision and counsel and you have no worries," he suggested.

Dr. E. J. Henderson presided at the meeting, and Dr. C. J. Devins told of the results of the municipal election and the money by-law. Mrs. Wilfred Adams was guest soloist with Mrs. C. R. Boulding at the piano. Delroy Babcock moved the vote of thanks to the speaker, and his room won the attendance prize for the third straight time. Mrs. William Morris expressed the thanks of the ladies to the present. Refreshments were served by the ladies as the ladies enjoyed a holiday.

MOVES INTO HOME

Mr. and Mrs. George Baldwin have moved into their residence on Mill St.

NAMED PRESIDENT

Martin Southwood, Aurora, has been elected district president of the York-Simcoe district, Sons of England. Lodges at Aurora, Newmarket, Barrie, Orillia, Midland, Collingwood and other points are included in the territory.

ORGANIST RETIRES

With deep regret officials of Aurora United church accepted the resignation of Mrs. A. C. A. Willis as organist and choir leader. Mrs. Willis has been prominent in Aurora musical circles for over 25 years and she has established an enviable record, her choir being regarded as outstanding and winning several prizes at the York county musical festivals. Applications are now being received by the church officials for the position.

RESIDENT HERE IN
Gwillimbury to the spring of 1812 I had resided with my father on the farm. At that time he allowed me to commence for myself, as he had other boys that were able to help him. And as I had in a great degree, been brought up upon the water, I loved it (and to this day), so I concluded to go to sea. With this view I started about April 1, 1812, being then 19 years of age, for Quebec; but as I had but little money in my pocket, I should soon have to go to work for some.

I soon fell in with a man near Brighton who wanted men to go with him up the River Trent to get out lumber and to take it to Quebec. This, I thought a good chance for me, especially when he agreed to allow me for returning, which I did not then intend to do. But he did not intend commencing before May 1, so I hired to a man close by for a month for $10 to work in a still house, and here I learned to make whiskey. I then went with Messrs. Proctor and Fay into the townships of Rawdon and Percy, where we remained for some three months; when we came back and made up our raft and started for Quebec. This was in the latter part of August. The war broke out in that summer while we were up in the wood; and by the time we had got underway and proceeded from the mouth of the Trent as far as within four miles of Kingston, where we were driven ashore and broken up. It took us about a month to repair our raft, and by this time the enemy was in force near Cornwall and had taken some rafts on their way across Lake St. Francis. As it was getting late in the season for rafting purposes, it was thought best to lay up for the winter, so we took the raft into Cataraqui Creek, and "staked her down" and dispersed. On account of my not getting my pay I was unable to proceed on my way to sea, so I returned home.

About a week after I went to York (now Toronto), to do garrison duty. There I stopped until the next spring. About April 1, 1813, my term of service being then ended, I went down again, thinking we might go on with the raft, or, if not, that I would get my back pay at Kingston; and as there was no timber at hand but our raft, the government gave more for it than it would have brought in Quebec the fall before, or even at that time. The war was then raging and men were wanted, so I gave up the sea and volunteered as a landsman. We were stationed on Presque Isle Point for a while; and while there York was taken by the enemy. We were then moved some five or six miles further west, where we remained some three months and were disbanded. In July I again returned home; but was soon again called out on a general call. After about two weeks we were dismissed. I then, in company with Rich. Graham, hired to go to Kingston from York in a small boat of about one ton burthen. In her we were three of us, and returned, which was considered a great feat, taking into account the danger we were exposed to from the enemy's cruiser as well as from the lake itself.

In the latter part of November of that year two boats were brought up Yonge St. for the purpose of taking a large quantity of flour in bags and some clothing for the troops and others about the Sault Ste. Marie at the foot of Lake Superior. These were the first boats that ever crossed Lake Simcoe. I was hired by the Hon. Duncan Cameron to go and manage these boats. The flour, etc., after being taken to where Barrie now stands, was taken on the back of horses, to the head of Willow Creek, the eastern branch of the Nottawasaga River, from whence it was to have been at once taken in large canoes to its place of destination; but the frost set in early and froze up the creek, so it had to remain there until the next spring. The horses that carried over the flour, etc., were taken from about Yonge St., some 20 or more, and were piloted by one of the Snake

In that winter Capt. Dennis, grandfather of Lieut.-Col. J. S. Dennis, went over with a party of men to Willow Creek, and there built some 25 or 30 boats of about five tons. I assisted at the work until April 1 when I hired as a substitute for one Daniel Clarke, uncle to, Silas Clarke of East Gwillimbury, and again went to Little York. Here I remained until June 1, when Edward Clarke and I took a contract from the government to boat stores from Holland Landing to where Barrie now stands. We followed that business until the close of navigation.

About Dec. 1, 1814, a number of us were employed by the commissariat department to open a road between Kempenfeldt Bay on Lake Simcoe, to Penetanguishene Bay on Lake Huron. Here I remained until news of Jesse Smith, retired Sudbury Bell Telephone Co. plant foreman, is shown third from the left holding his life membership certificate and pocket identification in the Telephone Pioneers of America. The certificate was presented at a banquet in Sudbury following a day-long meeting there. Over 100 delegates were present. Mr. Smith married the former Dora Haffie, Keswick, 34 years ago. He has seen 37 years of service with the Bell Telephone Co. He was also presented with a wallet while Mrs. Smith was presented with a set of gold costume jewelry. Pictured from left to right are C. B. Harrison, James Ross, Mr. Smith and H. A. J. MacKinnon, all of whom have been in the telephone industry for over 21 years, a condition of membership in the Telephone Pioneers of America. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have lived in Sudbury since their marriage. They have two sons, Karl, at home, and Grant who has just completed six years of service with the R.C.A.F. transport command and is at present attending the University of Toronto; and two daughters, Mrs. Isabelle Fraser, Sudbury, and Mrs. Winnie Blake, Coniston.

peace, which was about April 1, 1815. The government work was then stopped where I was. I was at the time superintending the building of certain houses at Kempenfeldt and my brother, John, was in the same capacity at Penetanguishene. Commissary Head, brother of Sir Francis Bond Head, was then commandant in that quarter, and on receipt of the news he immediately stopped the work. Each man was dismissed and I again returned to my home, but this time to a new one.

I must now go back for a few months to bring forward another subject that I have passed over.

In August, 1814, I was married to Eleanor Emes, daughter of Calvin Emes and Martha Emes of North Gwillimbury. This family came from Vermont in 1804 (I believe). They sprang from the early settlers of Massachusetts of English origin, and were rigid Presbyterians. In 1812, while crossing from the mouth of the Holland River to Roche's Point in a bark canoe old Mr. Emes, a son, a daughter, her husband and an Indian were all drowned. This family was among the first settlers on the shore of Lake Simcoe, where they experienced many privations for want of a road from there to Newmarket. They were, consequently, compelled to travel by the lake and river, for a number of years, both in winter and summer. On one of these trips, returning from mill, they were drowned.

At the close of the war in 1815 I settled upon a farm in East Gwillimbury, known afterwards as Spruce Dale. This farm my brother, John, and I bought with money made during the war. It contained 200 acres (E. 1/2 - 13 and 14 - 3 con., E. Gwillimbury), and had at the time about 15 acres cleared with a small house and barn upon it. Upon this place I worked the first year alone, my brother, John, being employed building a schooner at the mouth of the Nottawasaga River for the late Hon. Peter Robinson. The next year he joined me on the farm where we continued to work together clearing up our farms, until 1823, when he married. A short time before this, however, we entered into a contract with the government for the supply of fresh beef to the naval establishment at Penetanguishene in which one or the other of us was employed for two years. In 1823 we divided our property, he taking the east and I the west 100 acres. We had also about 800 acres of wild lands which we also divided. Of this I had the greater share as he had the most clearing on his farm. We, however, worked much together, but lived separately.

In the fall of this year I went to Lockport on the Erie Canal, and left a man to work the farm. Here I remained, superintending certain portions of the work (excavations, etc.) for about ten months, and then returned home.

In November, 1824, I was sent for by the late Hon. Peter Robinson, then at Peterborough, to go down and assist in erecting certain buildings there. When I went, there were but two buildings there, one was a small saw mill and the other a small house for the sawyer. Here I remained about two months, building and settling the emigrants whom Mr. Robinson had that year brought out; after which I again returned home. From that time until 1832, I continued about home, during which I owned two other farms, which I improved and worked. One of these lay near the Homestead, and the other in West Gwillimbury, being N. 1/2 lot 4-4th con. — 100-acre. In 1830 I entered into partnership with my brothers, Hiram, Harvey and Alfred, to go into the tanning and currying business, Harvey being of that trade. We therefore, bought out one Philmon Squire at Holland Landing. This was the worst undertaking I ever entered into, as the burden of the payments soon fell upon me. Harvey had been down about Kingston some six years, during which time he had married a sister of the Hon. Benj. Seymour, a lady, though poor, and who had great pride, etc. This caused him, as we afterwards learned, to live beyond his means, and soon, after we had got fairly to work, claims followed him, which compelled us to take the place from him and to employ him to carry it on. The arrangement at first was that they only wanted my name as a guarantee and $200 in cash, and the balance (about $2,000) would be paid by the others. But when Harvey failed, the burden fell upon me, as I was considered the most able. Accordingly I was obligated to sell my farm in West Gwillimbury to raise money to meet our payments and to purchase hides, etc. In 1832, owing to the high notions of his wife, Harvey left and went to the United States. This left us without anyone to manage the business.

Alfred by working with Harvey had got some insight into the business. We therefore, set him at the head of the affair and Hiram and I turned out to earn money as best we could. As produce was very low in those times, Hiram worked at his trade (carpentering) and I went into public works. After we had paid for the place (the tannery, etc.) Hiram sold his share to Alfred and me. I here parted with two lots: 100 acres in Tiny and 100 acres in Oro. Not long after this we let the concern to Walter Barry (who is now at Bradford) for ten years, he buying our stock. I then bought Alfred's share. Here I parted with a valuable lot in Innisfil, known as Cedar Point. Alfred then went and started store-keeping in Barrie.

C.F.L. UNION

tineer Ivan Winkworth, A. M. Brunskill, and J. Flannery, labor board officials, were the returning officers.

"The nine men whose names were challenged were objected to by the C.I.O. on the grounds that they were not exactly production men," said A. N. Belugin, superintendent. "Since all the men voted last time, the C.F.L. and the company both objected to the objections. However the votes of the nine men were segregated by the returning officer, as it turned out, their ballots did not matter anyway."

Those excluded by the labor relations board from voting included the office staff, the non-working foremen, all those above the rank of foreman, employees under 16, part-time students, and all workers who work less than 24 hours a week, Mr. Belugin said.

Mr. Brunskill said that an almost 100 percent vote was recorded. "Under the Wright-Harvey Decision of the national labor relations board at Ottawa, the petitioning union had to get a majority of the votes of the eligible voters in order to take over control. However, in spite of the fact that the C.F.L. union got only 138 of 277 eligible votes, less than half, they retain control because they had an automatic renewal clause in their contract," Mr. Brunskill said.

TELLS EXPERIENCES

St. Paul's W.A. was honored last Tuesday evening by having Rev. Canon Wilkinson, recently returned missionary from India, give an illustrated talk on his work there. Canon Wilkinson is one of the most outstanding missionaries in the Anglican church and Tuesday evening's lecture was enlightening. His work took him and Mrs. Wilkinson into very remote parts of India where white men are seldom allowed to penetrate.

His first film was in black and white; the second was in technicolor and well portrayed the beauty of the Tibetan valley where his work lay. Part of his talk and pictures showed the leper colony where he also worked.

Mrs. Eugene Cane, organist and choir leader of the Christian church, and members of her choir kindly gave a recital before the pictures were thrown on the screen. Mrs. Cane's class of girls sang several delightful numbers in parts, some accompanied and some unaccompanied. Joan Widdifield gave a piano solo, tiny Marion Gibson sang two songs and Don Brice also sang two songs while Don Barker sang The Bells of St. Mary's with accompaniment by the girls in an arrangement made by Mrs. Cane. The audience was delighted with each number.

OLD RECEIPTS
only got one bill a year. When Wm. McMaster built his house on Prospect St., I helped him with my team of horses."

Spotting another note addressed to Elwood Hughes, Mr. Armitage reminisced further: "Elwood had a small store in comparison to McMaster. He was Johnny Hughes' father. Johnny was the town clerk and lived on the east side of Prospect St." The note read, "Sir — You will please let the bearer, Mrs. Campbell, have 50 cents in merchandise." It was signed Moses Bogart.

Another receipt, signed by J. B. Caldwell, was "for cutting and glazing one square in front" and amounted to 11 shillings three pence.

"I knew James Caldwell very well, we were great friends, Mr. Armitage said. "He had a son in California who sent him some pineapples once. They were the first I had ever seen. James lived on Botsford St. across from where the Runsey's now live. He was a chairmaker by trade."

Other names brought memories flooding back to Mr. Armitage, names such as Martin Robinson, Mrs. Bond "who was the milliner", Erastus Jackson "who ran against Widdifield for the provincial parliament", Samuel Lundy who was "a wonderful business head", R. H. Smith "who owned half the town", Dr. Hackett, Dr. Hunter and Dr. Mosh, Walter Forsyth "who built and ran the King George Hotel", and many others.

"At that time, each district had only one polling place. I had to go all the way to Ballantrae because my farm at the corner of Yonge and Eagle Sts. was mostly in Whitechurch. There was no secret vote then. I just went up to Collins who was clerk at the time and told him who I wanted to vote for. He marked it down and I walked out," Mr. Armitage said as he looked at the last receipt.

LAST RITES HELD FOR JOHN OUGH, 70

Masonic rites attended the funeral Friday of John Ough, 70, who died in Newmarket Wednesday, Dec. 4. Rev. Cottrill of the United church of Canada, conducted the funeral services at the chapel of Roadhouse and Rose. Interment was in Newmarket cemetery.

Born in East Gwillimbury, Mr. Ough went to Haileybury in 1907 where he was employed by the firm of Gordon Davies, butcher and grocer, for ten years. He then went into business for himself, operating stores in Cobalt and New Liskeard for 17 years.

Poor health forced him to leave the north country and he returned to Newmarket. Mr.

Ough was a member of the Cobalt Masonic Lodge and I.O.O.F. Surviving are his widow, two sons, Bert, Notachewan, and Roy, Kirkland Lake; two daughters, Mrs. Howard Hawley (Marjorie), Kirkland Lake, and Mrs. Dale Johnston (Mildred), Schumacker; two sisters, Mrs. Robert Helmer, New Liskeard, and Mrs. Wellington Selby, Sharon, and one brother, Leonard, Boston.

Among those attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Ough and Mrs. J. Morning, Toronto; Miss Maggie Ough and Mrs. T. Sisman, Aurora.

QUEENSVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. O. Luck visited Mr. Luck's aunt, Mrs. J. Terry, last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Leith visited Aurora on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rollings spent Sunday in Uxbridge.

NO SERVICE FOR VOTERS?

An estimated one out of three Newmarket voters marked their ballot on Monday at a time when there were six councillors to elect from nine candidates, and three public school trustees from five candidates. Newmarket public men can complain with every justification that the support they are given at the polls is scarcely decisive. The vote had all the aspects of a mere formality instead of the expression of the will of the citizens that it should have been.

We think, however, that the poor showing at the polls was much the fault of the practice, inaugurated with our system of representative government and brought to perfection by present-day politicians, of catering to the voters in return for their support. There has always been a great effort on the part of the candidates on election day to be obliging to the public on the general principle that "I'll scratch your back if you will scratch mine."

Most obvious expression of this political salesmanship is seen in the development of an efficient transportation system to bring voters to the polls. This year, however, there was little evidence of such activity. The voters, properly piqued at the lack of interest in their welfare, simply refused to come out. This seems to us a very reasonable explanation, and we offer it as a variation to the scolding deserved by those who did not exercise their franchise.

NO PLACE TO KEEP HISTORIC PAPERS

The finding of several old documents relating to the early history of Newmarket poses again the question: How can those documents be kept for future study? At the present time, there is no building in Newmarket where space has been set aside for the proper preservation of these old papers which tell much of the history of Newmarket. It is an old and historic centre. Such finds may be expected to continue. Steps should be taken now to provide for a safe resting place for these documents. Our lack of concern about the history of Newmarket is evident not only in this failure to provide a safe resting place for old papers but also in the run-down condition of the Anglican cemetery on the outskirts of town. Newmarket is overlooking a sound tourist attraction in not renovating and protecting such sites.

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION
ON SCHOOL AREAS

The editor of the Stouffville Tribune does not approve of high school areas, or rather, high school areas as they affect the high school in his town. In condemnation of high school areas in an article printed in last week's issue of The Era and Express he makes charges, which we believe, are not in accord with the facts.

We had in mind specifically the charge of the Stouffville editor that: "It can be taken as the bunk of Mr. Duffin (Gordon L. Duffin, provincial department of education representative who has spoken in Newmarket on the formation of high school areas) that only in the 500-1,000 pupil school can proper, all-round education be provided. True, there may be a lot of things taught in the very large schools that the smaller school would not touch. But the number who want the odd subject or course not covered in any 150-200 student school is very small indeed, and is not important enough to warrant such large areas as are being sought."

In figures recently published by the provincial department of education, it was estimated that only ten percent of the students who entered high school completed their studies. This figure has been borne out at Newmarket high school which offers not only academic, but commercial and first and second year agriculture courses. The 90 percent of the students who leave school before finishing is by no means "very small indeed."

Provision of shop work, home economics and complete agricultural courses will not provide for a 100 percent of the students completing their courses, but through wider choice of subjects, instruction of more "practical" nature, many students among the 90 percent who would otherwise have left school, will remain to complete their studies.

As for the charge that the Drew government is seeking only to unload the "hot potato" of educational costs, there is little to condemn there. It is difficult to say whether a high school area is more or less costly than the present system. But if, as the Stouffville editor suggests, it is less costly then it is a consideration worth a cheer not a jeer. After all, the money does come from our pockets, and if a saving can be effected, so much the better.

In a recent issue of the Swift Current (Sask.) Sun, edited by the students of the Swift Current high school, there is an editorial similar in theme to an editorial written by the student editors of the high school edition of The Newmarket Era and Express. Both editorials are reprinted below, the Sun editorial entitled Juvenile Delinquency, and The Era and Express editorial entitled Student Looks At Town.

We draw attention to the second paragraph of the Newmarket student's editorial where he writes: "From our observations, students are normal individuals; they have faults and virtues; reckless moments and conservative hours. Naturally enough, old heads do not grow on young shoulders. However if high school students were treated as the citizens of tomorrow instead of as problem children and potential criminals, they would rise to greater heights. It is a well known fact that we do just about what is expected of us."

And to the second paragraph of the Sun editorial: "Now the war and time of crisis are over and youth is expected to revert to its former state of adolescence, to obey the commands of adults, and to resort to the games and amusements which now seem childish. Why, if youth can prove itself adult in times of crisis, can it not be allowed the entertainment and pleasures of adults? If youth can handle an adult's job, is he not able to handle an adult's entertainment also?"

There is a marked difference in context and argument, but the substance of these two excerpts is the same: If youth is treated with respect, allowed the maximum of responsibility, youth will respond accordingly; if youth is treated like a sick person to whom all sorts of cures must be applied, then youth will act the part. It is a truth, uttered by representatives of youth, which well-doers might ponder.

Following are the two editorials:

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

(Swift Current Sun)

During the war, youth was asked to take over many responsibilities that in normal times, would never have been entrusted to them. These tasks were carried out, in most cases, as efficiently, and in some cases, more efficiently, than they had been handled by adults. This is not idle boasting, but established fact, as has been proved by the youth in war plants, in civil defence, and above all, in the armed forces.

Now the war and the time of crisis are over and youth is expected to revert to its former state of adolescence, to obey the commands of adults, and to resort to games and amusements which now seem childish. Why, if youth can prove itself adult in times of crisis, can it not be allowed the entertainment and pleasures of the adults? If a youth can handle an adult's job, is he not able to handle an adult's entertainment also?

There must be taken into account the fact that youth believes in adults, and consequently wants to do the things adults do. It believes since adults do a certain thing, that youth should also be able to do that thing, with no interference from anyone, with the exception of the home and the forces of law and order. We know right from wrong but it is a great temptation to do as the adults do, even though it is wrong.

We believe that an example of good living should first be given to youth before criticism is given. It is true that a man can go to church faithfully and still not be a Christian, and, similarly, it is true that criticism does no good if nothing further is done.

We believe that more help should be given to the youth and less criticism. This will undoubtedly help us over the rough spots, so often encountered in this post-war period.

STUDENT LOOKS AT TOWN

(The Newmarket Era and Express)

Editors, writers and speakers have harped on juvenile delinquency so much in the last few years that the public has reached the stage where it is often almost disappointing if the student acts as a rational creature. Even a good idea can be done to death.

From our observations, students are normal individuals; they have faults and virtues, reckless moments and conservative hours. Naturally enough old heads do not grow on young shoulders. However, if high school students were treated as the citizens of tomorrow instead of as problem children and potential criminals, they would rise to greater heights. It is a well known fact that we do just about what is expected of us.

Luckily for us, the people of Newmarket have taken a very sane view of this issue. In the last year or two, the different organizations of the town have been working with one end in view—the provision of recreation for the younger generation.

The newly formed recreation council with its recreational director deserve a great deal of credit. Last summer they carried out very successfully a program of supervised swimming at Wilcox Lake. They are also to be congratulated on providing many playground activities in the summer months and on saving the town from destruction on Halloween night.

It is hard to single out any one organization for praise. The Women's Institute in sponsoring an Ice Follies using only local talent deserves recognition. The newly formed dramatic and music clubs are instances of planned recreation which is very worth while from both the participants' and spectators' standpoint. The Cubs, the Brownies, the church groups, the Sunday-schools, the school sports and many other groups and activities should be mentioned. The efforts of Max Boag with his dances for teen-agers on Friday nights should not be passed over.

Young people are often criticized for not appreciating the things done for them. On the contrary, the young people of Newmarket are deeply conscious of the efforts made in their behalf.

People who should know are always saying that the wealth of a country lies in its young people. If we are an investment, we shall do our very best to see that Newmarket and Canada reap the dividends.

SEEK TO REPEAL
IMMIGRATION LAW

It is rather embarrassing for the Canadian citizen to find that his country, which has subscribed wholeheartedly to such documents as the Atlantic Charter, still maintains an immigration law against the Chinese such as is applied against no other people. At present a move is afoot to have the law repealed for humanitarian and business reasons. The substitution of a quota system in preference to discrimination was urged by a delegation which recently waited upon the minister of Immigration, Hon. James A. Glenn.

It was argued that since Canada had promised, through its signature on the Atlantic Charter, "to promote respect for and observance of human rights and fundamental freedoms for all those without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion," it could not continue its present restrictive immigration policy, against the Chinese. At the same time, it was pointed out that China is the third largest market for Canadian exports and that it was scarcely good business to maintain a closed door to a trade associate.

Canada would do well to follow the example of the United States where a similar act was repealed and the quota system substituted.

APATHY AT NOMINATIONS

Only two nominations to the Aurora public school board were made at the nomination meeting in Aurora. One seat has been left vacant. A second nomination meeting must be held Dec. 12 to nominate a third trustee, with an election following if more than one candidate is named.

Much trouble and additional expense could have been avoided if Aurora citizens had considered their duties seriously enough to make sure that at least three candidates were named for the three public school seats. Now the citizens must pay the expense of a second nomination meeting, and if more than one candidate is named, the expense of a second election. In the meantime, the administration of the public school marks time until a full quota of school trustees is provided.

Aurora is not alone in this defection. In other municipalities, there have been shortages of candidates for public office. It is indicative of a general apathy in public affairs which seems to be growing with each year. This condition is particularly to be condemned, coming as it does in the years following the greatest war in history, a war fought primarily to re-affirm the right of all men to govern themselves.

The citizens of Aurora have shown more than once their willingness to work together for the good of the community. Take, for example, the memorial fund which has grown into a sizable amount because every citizen in one way or another has contributed to it. Why cannot that same spirit apply to filling municipal offices? Unless it does, Aurora citizens will be the ones to suffer.

EDITOR MARKS
20TH ANNIVERSARY

With this week's edition of the Fergus News-Record, Dr. Hugh Templin, its editor, will have marked his 20th anniversary in the editorial chair. It will be an anniversary that Dr. Templin can observe with a pride shared by all others of the weekly press in Canada for it has been through Dr. Templin, and others like him, that the high editorial standards of the weekly press have been reached.

Dr. Templin edits a rather unorthodox editorial page on page 2 of his weekly. Appropriately enough called "That Inside Page," its range indeed runs from "the shoes and ships and sealing wax, and cabbages and kings" that the sub-head on the page suggests. He writes in an easy-going style, which is humorous without effort, intelligent without being stuffy, and which sets off to the best advantage the author's wide knowledge of the affairs of his community.

There is a story that Dr. Templin scorns the usual write-and-run-out methods of many editors, setting his material on the linotype himself without any previous preparation. Such a practice will not permit any second thoughts, revision or correction without being forced to do the whole job over again. That the story is told of Dr. Templin, whether it is true or not, is indicative of the esteem in which he is held by his contemporaries.

Noting his approaching anniversary last week, he wrote: "It was on Dec. 12, 1918, that we first wrote the editorial page of the Fergus News-Record, and we have been at it steadily ever since. That means about 1,200 pages of type, and as each page contains many book-size pages, it means we have written the equivalent of a whole shelf of books — really quite a lifetime chore." It is not the volume of his writing for which he is recognized, but the quality of his work. It will last even though it is part of that most perishable commodity, news.

What Others Think

SHOULD COAL BE NATIONALIZED?

(Midland Free Press Herald)

Can freedom of enterprise and the rights of the individual human be carried too far?

Certainly we are seeing both being reduced to absurdity in the United States at the present time. A strike of 400,000 coal miners has been allowed to paralyze the whole nation's economic life, and throw a million workers into idleness. And all because government, mine owners and miners are not able to compose their differences without fighting a war.

The communist section of the world is laughing at the United States. No such crisis could occur in Russia. Anyone who dared defy the orders of the Soviet government, as John L. Lewis has done in the U.S.A., would be stood up against a wall and shot. In a totalitarian system there is no place for the individual or the group who would stake their rights against those of the whole people.

We folk of the English speaking world have always been proud of the fact that under our system of government the individual man is free to work or not to work. We want no slavery, whether of corporations or of the state, and we have been willing to put up with all the inconveniences and economic waste inherent in our way of doing things, rather than surrender our freedom. Like Patrick Henry we have been inclined to cry "Give me liberty or give me death."

Liberty of mine owners to strike for better pay and living conditions is necessarily accompanied by liberty of mine owners to refuse them. Under a free enterprise there are two sides to every bargain and most of the time there are three. The general public is vitally interested because most industries are interdependent. Any interference with production makes it impossible for others to work. A strike can therefore be against a nation as well as an employer. This is particularly true of coal mining. Hundreds of other industries depend upon coal for their very existence.

Two ways of handling the situation present themselves. One is for the government to pass compulsory arbitration laws. These would provide that in all disputes between management and labor, or at least in those which are fundamental to the national well being, there should be a board of arbitrators appointed to hear both sides of the case, their decision to be final.

The other is for nationalization of such key industries. We have gone further in that direction in Canada than have the Americans. We have largely nationalized hydro-electric power, and one of our railways and telegraph companies. Our street railways are for the most part publicly owned. In Britain the Labor government has taken steps to take over the coal mines because of the stubbornness of mine owners in refusing to modernize their mines and improve working conditions. A nationalization solution seems inevitable in the United States if every year is to see new coal strikes.

Strikes, could, of course, still happen under national direction. That is what is happening at the moment. It must be remembered, however, that the coal mines still belong to private owners who have not been willing to accept the terms under which the government has been operating the mines. It was because the government is now anxious to get out from under and hand the mines back to the operators that John L. Lewis declared the government contract at an end. Nationalization could not guarantee freedom from labor trouble, but it probably would be less likely.

GOLDEN GLOW THANKS
TEAKETTLE INVENTOR

By GOLDEN GLOW

One of the coziest words in our English language is that little word "teakettle," and perhaps next to it is "teapot." Both words bring up visions of "a good hot cup of tea," so refreshing, so enjoyable! You will see it as our emblem of good cheer on Christmas cards quite often, in the old fashioned English fireplace with the teakettle hanging from a crane over a glowing, red fire in the grate with the teapot on the hook waiting for the kettle to boil.

Now there's a word you don't often hear, here in Canada at any rate, in connection with a teakettle, and that is "crane." In the high school reader in my day there was a delightful piece of poetry called The Hanging of the Crane. It was a ceremony in which the relatives and friends of a bride and her husband celebrated their home coming. The crane is a swinging arm fitted into a vertical upright at the side of the fireplace so you could have it over the fire when needed or swung to the side. To put the crane in place over the fire was similar to our house warming, signifying the same things, the starting of a new home.

In those days big, black, iron kettles were the kind used. Our shining beauties would be all smudged up in no time with that treatment. I said our shining beauties and I mean just that, for what is more dear to the heart of a housewife than a bright, shining kettle? We have all sorts of course, enamel, white, blue, green or yellow, maybe a Brown Betty in enamel, all one color or in combination. Some are gayly decorated. You can take your choice, the same as with teapots. We have all sorts and most are beautiful enough to suit a queen's taste. There is the kind with a short, lip-like spout large enough to hold under the tap to fill, for it has no lid. Then there's the kind that whistles when it is boiling—a touch of magic there, eh? How can the kettle know when it is time to fill up the teapot?

Did you ever hear of a "kettle-drum" in connection with a tea party? Whether it started in military circles or not, I have no idea—but it is an out-of-doors tea party with the tea in a huge urn and hot water in a brass or copper kettle. There is something new that every hostess loves and that is a brass kettle for hot water at her afternoon tea party.

I seem to be wandering all over, one little word or another sets me off on a fresh track. I started on teakettles and here we are having a kettle-drum. Now I wonder did they have a drum-head service in the army and then have a cup of tea and call it a kettle-drum? Since I do not know and am just drawing on my imagination, maybe I'd better stick to teakettles and not display my ignorance!

Somebody was talking about those big, black, iron teakettles once day and said that in her early girlhood days she well remembered one in their family but recalled it only being used on bath night, but it stood on the kitchen range, always kept full of rain water and she never recalls ever having lifted it herself, it was so heavy, especially when full of water. She laughingly said, "We have come a long way from those days with our modern bathtubs where you turn a tap and get all the hot water you want. We youngsters had a large tin bathtub, pale green enamel on the outside and shell pink inside. It was shaped like a coffin, wider at the top and curving down to the foot end." Can't you just see someone with the big black kettle pouring the bath water into this gay bathtub for the small girl of long ago?

Her description of it like a coffin makes you smile—where did she get that idea?

When you go camping nowadays you usually have all the modern conveniences—even to electric ranges, unless indeed you really "go camping" in the wilds, then you have your teakettle hung over a camp fire. Good old teakettle—how could we keep house without you?

TWO NEWMARKET MEN
RECEIVE SERVICE PINS

EMERGENCY!

— SAVE
ELECTRICITY!

A critical power shortage now exists in Southern Ontario. Savings in the use of electricity will be needed on the part of all citizens in order to avoid serious difficulties during the present winter period, and Hydro is asking all consumers to conserve electricity wherever possible in order to relieve this situation.

THE DAILY PERIOD DURING WHICH SAVINGS SHOULD BE EFFECTED IS BETWEEN 8 A.M. AND 8 P.M., AND CONDITIONS ARE PARTICULARLY
ACUTE BETWEEN 4 P.M. AND 7 P.M.

Factories and industry are asked to switch from day to night operation, in whole or in part, wherever possible, and also to effect all power savings practicable. Street lighting should be reduced to the lowest level consistent with public safety.

THIS IS HOW YOU CAN HELP

- Eliminate the use of electricity for signs, billboards and store windows from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.
- Eliminate all Christmas decorative lighting until Saturday, December 21st, and again after January 1st.
- Turn off lights when not required.
- Use the minimum number of lights in the living-room, consistent with good vision.
- Do not use electric air heaters and grates.
- Use electrically heated water sparingly and check leaking hot water taps.
- Do not use range elements on "high" when a lower heat will serve, and turn off all elements as soon as possible.
- Cook oven meals as often as possible and avoid the unnecessary use of surface elements.
- Turn the radio on only for programs desired; if not listening, turn it off.
- Operate electric toasters and other small appliances only as needed.

The electric power shortage is a general condition following six years of war and arising from the fact that it was impossible to proceed with the development of sufficient new power sites during the war because of the requirements for war production. Since the war, the critical shortage of men and materials has seriously delayed the development of new sources of power.

The Commission has been reducing loads within its direct control, wherever possible. These reductions are not enough, and it is now necessary to appeal for assistance on the part of all consumers.

Hydro appreciated the splendid voluntary assistance on the part of its consumers during the war, and believes that similar co-operation will be forthcoming at this time.

Joy IN OUR Job

Call it idealism, if you will. But the fact that we find pleasure in the compounding of prescriptions is your assurance of a task capable and conscientiously performed. And isn't that rather important to you at a time when fluency comes? Think it over—and make a mental note to bring your next prescription to this "Reliable" Pharmacy for expert compounding.

There is a large army of outdoor men who have learned to depend on Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Riding on trains or trucks causes a jarring which is hard on the kidneys and also the exposure to all kinds of wind and weather.
This medicine goes to stimulate the action of the kidneys and relieve the backache which so often results.
For over half a century they have been popular with railway men, truckers and farmers.

PROVINCIAL AND DOMINION CHAMPIONS

York county's clothing project team from Vellore, which won the provincial inter-county competition at the O.A.C. and later represented Ontario in the national contest at the Royal Winter Fair with seven provinces represented, is shown above. Left, Miss Orville Orr, Maple, high individual score in both contests; Miss Lulu Row, Women's Institute branch, Toronto, home economist for York county, and Miss Evelyn Hare, Maple.

PROV. CHAMPS, DOMINION RUNNERS-UP

York's Markham calf club team, which won the Farmer's Magazine Trophy as provincial champions in the inter-county competition in judging and dairy husbandry at the O.A.C. recently and later stood second out of nine provincial teams in the national contest at the Royal Winter Fair, is shown above. Left in front, Ray Ingleton, Agincourt, high individual score in the provincial contest, and John Kennedy, Agincourt, high man of the teams in the national. Behind is A. Oliver, Dalrymple, assistant representative, and W. M. Cockburn, agricultural representative.

York County Wins Second Round In Jr. Farmers Tests

The York county junior farmers were well represented at the district public speaking and amateur entertainment contest at Barrie on the evening of Tuesday, Dec. 3. In order to compete, the contestants had to first be winners in their own respective local clubs and then county club before they could enter this competition. Both the public speaking and amateur entertainment were of high calibre.

Mrs. Velma Weir, Pefferlaw, of the Virginia junior farmers' association, ably carrying the laurels for York county, was first in the public speaking. In the amateur entertainment, the "Harmonettes," a sextette of girls from Vellore, under the direction of Miss Margaret Watson, Kleinburg, also took first place.

Second prize in public speaking went to Frank Tod, Gifford, in South Simcoe, who spoke on the subject "Hydro" while Ivan Cummings, Barrie, in North Simcoe, was third. In the amateur entertainment there were three other entries and a duet composed of Miss McKnight and Miss Bartlett, South Simcoe, was second. Miss Belle Warnica, Stroud, South Simcoe, and Miss Cook, North Simcoe, also sang solo numbers.

The judges for the competition were Mrs. G. E. Case, Newmarket, Miss Weinhardt, Alliston, D. F. McQuaig and Mr. Tufford, both of Barrie. While the judges were arriving at their decisions, Ross Beattie, the district director, led in a number of play party games.

The Harmonettes and Mrs. Weir will compete in the zone competition in the Camilla Hall at 8.15 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 11. In this competition York girls will be competing against the winners from the counties of Bruce, Grey, Wellington, Dufferin, Peel, North Simcoe and South Simcoe.

UNION STREET

The Union Street Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Archie Sedore on Thursday, Dec. 5, with 21 members and five visitors present. Mrs. Lillian Johnston, the president, was in charge of the meeting which opened with O Come All Ye Faithful, followed by the Institute creed. The roll-call was My Favorite Christmas Carol and was well responded to. A letter of thanks for a recent donation to the Salvation Army was read. Three war brides were given a year's membership in the organization. The convention report was given in three parts by Mrs. Walter Rose, Mrs. Thos. Swanson and Mrs. Doug Beckett. Several Christmas carols were sung and there was also a Christmas card shower for the shut-ins. An exchange of Christmas gifts among those present proved to be an outstanding feature of the meeting. Following the National Anthem, a social half-hour was enjoyed when the hostesses, Mrs. Irvine Rose, Mrs. Douglas Beckett and Mrs. Harold Bray served doughnuts and coffee. Several from this community attended the Hunt club dance at Aurora on Friday night of last week. Miss Audrey Eves, Strangetown, spent the weekend at her home.

DOWN THE CENTRE

By AD. HULSE

We thought we had hit one of the seasons of the U.N.O. assembly debating the atomic bomb custody when we drifted into the O.H.A. convention at the Royal York on Saturday for a few brief moments. Business commitments kept us away from the greater part of the meeting but it was refreshing to see the largest gathering since pre-war days and the greatest debating funfest in many years.

Big bone of contention was the classification of teams by population and the inclusion of a clause which insists upon eight active homebrews on a club in intermediate B, junior B and C before players from larger centres can be brought in to play hockey, regardless of the fact that they may otherwise be eligible by reason of no competing team, release or mileage. The smalltown centres were out in force and carried the day.

Intermediate B, which is the brand of average hockey that will be played in these parts, is limited to town of under 6,000 in population now, rather than leaving it to the O.H.A. executive as has been the case in the past, to rule on the entry. Towns up to 12,000 population will rate intermediate A and so on up the ladder. That clause about eight homebrew players is going to cause a lot of headaches in quarters where plans have been made for the coming season with handpicked outsiders playing.

An announcement that will meet with the approval of all and do much to encourage the junior players is the plan to have each junior B and junior C club choose their most valuable player at the end of the season and send him on a three-day holiday trip to Toronto with all expenses paid to participate in an all-star game. It brings back memories of the East vs. West, all Ontario junior series, played up to about 1922 with all-star teams from the two districts playing at various points throughout Ontario.

Meeting old friends is always one of the highlights of the meeting and in the few minutes at our disposal, we encountered quite a few including the venerable Fred Wagborne, looking as youthful as 25 years ago when he used to referee lacrosse and hockey in these parts; Father Mallon and dapper Joe Primedeu of St. Mike's; Larry Molyneux representing the Newmarket Vets and busy renewing acquaintances; Gordy Brown, Markham intermediates, and Doug James, Markham juniors (juniors, we said); Herbie Andrews, who coached Aurora juniors back in 1930 when Aurora was trying to compete with Newmarket; Murray Scruton, West Toronto juniors, former headman of Etobicoke juniors; Flash Hollett, coach of Stafford seniors, ex-Detroit hockeyist and Keswick softballer; Ellis Pringle and Leon Smith, down determined to put Sutton West on the O.H.A. map again; Bing Caswell, ex-Newmarket camp fame, now an up-and-coming referee in the T.H.L. and O.H.A.; Chuck Shannon in tow of Caswell and quite confident that his Owen Sound Mohawks will be up and at 'em before the season ends; Howard Norris and Charlie Christie, Barrie Flyers; Jimmy Walker, representing Newmarket juniors, and Mickey Smith representing the Newmarket mercantile circuit; Chick Appel, the Stratford sports scribe, along with Bunny Morganson, Maxie Silverman and Bob Crosby of the N.O.H.A.; Jack Roxborough, Simcoe, and "Smokey" Reynolds, Chatham. Quite a fanning bee developed at the luncheon and afterwards and we missed seeing a lot who were doubtless there.

Intermediate grouping looks like Sutton Greenshirts, Newmarket Vets, Markham Millionaires and Whitby Red Wings. It should produce some of the best hockey in recent years. Mickey Smith and Jim Walker were to go into a huddle with W. A. Hewitt to see if the Newmarket mercantile loop could be included in the O.H.A. with a bye and the winner (on paper, at least, Hoffman Machinery), going into the O.H.A. playdowns.

Sutton Greenshirts look to be able to give all and sundry a battle this winter with practically the entire squad which won the O.R.H.A. intermediate title last winter, ready to go except for Dick Pearson, now in Toronto. Several new recruits of more than passing ability have been secured and they won't weaken the squad a bit.

Elmer Craik, a husky defenceman of experience who hails from the Maritimes, looks mighty good right now. Ken Davie, a fast, tricky forward who has played with Collingwood Shipbuilders in recent years and knows his way around, is now located in the Lake Simcoe metropolis in business and he should catch a place with ease.

Blondie Todd, who for our money was the fastest skater in the North York mercantile league last winter as a member of the Ballantrae club, will put up an awful battle for a regular assignment with Sutton. Todd is a nice stickhandler, too, and with a well coached team he will really show to advantage. Bud Gilbey, husky defenceman, is expected back home from the army by Christmas and "Big Toad",

"I thought I was WELL-INSULATED till polythene came along!"

Well may the thick-skinned rhinoceros grieve, for chemistry has produced an insulating material that puts even his tough hide to shame... It is called polythene—a new plastic that stands up to heat and cold and is unaffected by any known chemicals at ordinary temperature. Its unusual insulating qualities make it an indispensable factor in the vast, new field of radar and television while it gets back to earth again in the form of simple, resilient, waterproof refrigerator bowl covers that seem to last forever... polythene, in its scope of application, is another outstanding example of what Chemistry is contributing to our daily comfort and welfare.

trio read Harold ("red Mkt"), Albert ("red Mkt") and Albert from top to bottom. Then add the Wall duo, Leonard and Jimmy, and you really make the team look like a family affair.

Hughie Kerr, last year with Hill Combines and a member of Combines lacrosse team this summer, is up front and as dangerous on the ice as on the boxa cushion. Len Shropshire, veteran mercantile and rural hockeyist who was with Vandoor last winter, is back for another season of madcap merriment. Shropshire, a valuable player to any team, gets a big kick out of his annual hockey semester and age doesn't seem to make much difference to him. Francis Cosgrove, for the past several years a member of Richmond Hill juniors, is another front line ace. Congrats are in order for the dark-haired "Dinny" who recently married.

Irky Rosa, Richmond Hill mercantile, Ross Burgess, Johnny White from Elgin Mills and several others who aren't mentioned in the Oak Ridges publicity are with the club. Bruce Stephens, ex-Aurora junior and reputed to be signed with Newmarket Vets, trotted out with Oak Ridges and turned in a three-star effort. Stephens, of course, under the proposed new mercantile ruling of "no residence, no territorial, and no classification" will be eligible to play with the Nelson-Judge team even if he plays with the Vets. And before we leave the Oak Ridges hockey team, a news report from Schomberg shows "It's a girl" at the home of Ken Brown, ex-Oak Ridges player, now located at Nobleton after a lengthy stretch in the army. Mrs. Brown is the former Noreen McTaggart.

A reunion of two former teammates has taken place at Varsity arena where Ross Waddell and Del Beaumont, both members of the 1942 Aurora junior team, are playing with Stoney's. Waddell, now located in Oshawa, is playing goal for Oshawa Canadian Legion in the big four intermediate "B". Both boys were two of the best junior players from outside town to ever play with Aurora.

We notice where Johnny Sullivan and Bob Hassard of Marlboros, both ex-Hill junior players, are claimed as property of Toronto Leafs. Could be the Hill club will sometime receive a cut from pro hockey moguls if these two boys turn professional. Aurora juniors have never received a plugged nickel as yet from the professional activities of Joint McComb, Scotty Mair, and Bill Wilson, although a claim was officially filed with the C.H.A.

Richmond Hill minor hockey teams, sponsored by the Community Youth Council, took the ice last Saturday at Toronto Ice Landia, and will continue to practice there twice a week until the O.M.H.A. season opens.

Rumor has it that another minor hockey team other than that of Aurora Lions will be entered in the O.M.H.A. this season, although no details are available at this time.

Bert Life, now on a P.H.E. course at Toronto Varsity, was a candidate for the Toronto first team but failed to make the grade. Life will be playing intercollegiate intermediate and also inter-faculty. Pat Powers, a member of the same Newmarket camp team is with Stratford Indians of the O.H.A. senior circuit, and draws special rating for his blue-line efforts.

Bud Graham, husband of Alma "Jimmy" Goulding, former Aurora girl softball star, and son-in-law of James Goulding who will soon be going all out at Aurora arena, is one of the newer recruits to the sports writing fraternity with the Toronto Globe. Bud, however, is no tyro in the newspaper game and has been with Toronto dailies for a good many moons.

Earl McCready, one of Canada's greatest wrestlers, is scheduled home for Christmas after over six months in New Zealand and Australia. "The Aurora Farmer" was a great drawing card "Down Under" and he will wrestle his way home through the Pacific Coast and mid-west states, where he draws top billing. Jim Lontos, "The Golden Greek" who 15 years ago was billed as "world's champion" with the grapplers, was one of the pachyderms who made the trip across the Pacific, and he was, as you might expect, billed by the promoters as still "champeen".

A white hope tournament has been announced for Toronto on January 13, at Toronto coliseum. The event, staged by Sammy Keller and his Apex A.C., will doubtless pack 'em in for the fans really go for the big fellows, no matter how bad they are. We remember taking in the last similar tournament in 1935, along with 17,000 others at Maple Leaf Gardens, to set an attendance boxing record. There were 20 some bouts as we recall it, and the show lasted until about 1.30 a.m. We can't even recall who won out now but we're sure he never went very far.

We think, if memory serves us right, that Eric Cryderman from Sutton, really a light-heavyweight at the time, reached the finals and looked about the best on the card. Cryderman was, of course, an experienced amateur boxer at the time. Map Holly from Holland Landing was an entry too, and there was a Dutch lad from Woodbridge and another game youngster from near Uxbridge. There will probably be some from the district to root for this time as hope springs eternal in the big fists of some husky farm youth or factory worker.

The banquet circuit found Aurora midjet lacrosse team in good trencherman form on Saturday at Dawson's Grill, where the Aurora Canadian Legion honored the kids with a de luxe steak dinner. By virtue of funds left in the treasury, and the generosity of Aurora sports fans who responded to a subscription list taken around by manager Harry Sutton, sponsor Lyall Sparks was able to present handsome brass bullet, lighter-ash trays, inscribed as "North York champions" to all the players along with a team picture taken by Bud Barrager. It rounded out a fine season for the youngsters who were a credit to the town. Next year they'll be ready for bigger stuff, and the league will be better organized, we hope.

Aurora Highlands golfers will conclude the year with their annual banquet at Grant McCachens "Ridge Inn" on Monday, Dec. 16, at 7 p.m. Bill Boaks reports a big evening planned for the boys, and the winners will receive their trophies. The election of officers for next season will also be held. The club enjoyed one of the biggest years in its history and the 19th hole has finally been reached. Some of the harder souls are still in action on the course, even in December. It should be one of the big events of the year. Don't forget, either, that the Aurora badminton club is holding a gala New Year's Eve party at Aurora high school to see that 1947 gets ushered in in proper fashion.

The Women's Association of Trinity United church held its Christmas meeting December 5 in the Sunday-school room. The president, Miss Bertha J. Neilly, was in the chair. A Christmas pageant was presented by nine of the ladies in costume.

Miss June Hill contributed a solo and Rev. D. G. Cock, D.D., gave an interesting talk on India. The election of officers for 1947 was conducted by the pastor, Rev. H. Cotton.

New officers are: hon. pres., Mrs. H. Cotton; past pres., Miss Neilly; pres., Mrs. W. O. Noble; first vice pres., Mrs. R. L. Pritchard; second vice pres., Mrs. R. Howlett; third vice pres., Mrs. H. POTTAGEVILLE

On Sunday, Dec. 8, the service at Pottageville United church proved interesting and instructive when Rev. Rideout, D.D., gave an address on his experiences in mission work. Dr. Rideout is chairman of the missionary and maintenance fund of the United Church of Canada.

The Thursday night Community club held a box social at the church. It was attended by a large crowd. Mr. Everitt Paton, as auctioneer, caused a lot of merriment. The program was arranged by names being drawn out of a hat by Arnold Dove and some unexpected talent was discovered. The social was a great success and a good sum was realized.

DION STEEL THRESHERS

The farmer who is considering the purchase of a threshing machine should investigate the merits of the DION thresher before placing an order. Thousands of machines made by Dion Bros. are giving outstanding service in Canada and the United States.

Before leaving the factory each DION thresher must pass rigid tests to prove its ability to do a real job. DION threshers embody all modern improvements resulting from constant research. Timken Roller Bearings are used throughout.

DION gets ALL the grain and requires less power. It is a high quality machine—unequalled in principle, design and strength.

We will be glad to give further particulars upon request.

Poultry Farmers Urged To Start Chicks Earlier

W. M. Cockburn, Newmarket agricultural representative for York county, draws attention to a recent statement issued by the Ontario Agricultural College urging poultry farmers to start their chicks earlier to meet British market requirements.

The O.A.C. statement follows: "J. A. Peacock, director of egg supplies for the British ministry of food, on his recent visit to Canada regarding egg contracts, emphasized that a larger proportion of our eggs must be supplied in the fall season from fresh receipts if further contracts beyond 1948 are to be negotiated. This means higher fall production by Canada's poultry flocks, otherwise a large part of the present export demand will disappear and the industry will be faced with a 25 to 30 percent cut in the present poultry population.

This presents a distinct challenge to the poultry industry which the producers can meet just as they have met others. During the war years production reached to an untold level in answer to a challenge for more eggs for Britain. This new challenge is not one for further increase in producing population but by a reorganized program to move present production programs forward a month to six weeks. Immediate action is necessary if the initial part of the challenge is to be met in 1947. We must show some improvement in fall egg supply next year or otherwise the industry may not be so fortunate as to get a contract with Great Britain for 1949. If the industry wants a renewal of the contract it must be prepared to meet the other party's demands.

"The problem is not as great, perhaps, as it may at first appear. It simply means that if each purchaser of chicks will take delivery four to six weeks earlier than in the past, sufficient pullets would be fully developed, ready to start laying, early in September to supply the 1,000,000 cases called for and possibly an additional 500,000 as well. This idea of earlier chicks is not new, as more and more people have been getting their chicks earlier each year from April or May to March, February or even January.

"It is possibly true that a January chick may cost slightly more to rear than a May bird with respect to feed, fuel and housing. It is also true that winter-hatched birds develop into better birds than those of late hatches; the pullets lay from one to three dozen more eggs in their first year; mortality in the growing bird will not be over half that common in late May and June-hatched birds. There is also a premium of at least six cents a dozen on all eggs supplied from September 1 to January 31 under the present contract.

"This is not a case of a further increase in population. That is not wanted as the present critical feed situation will not support a larger population. It is simply a case of everyone possible starting their chicks earlier so that, allowing six months to grow, the pullets will be ready to lay next September.

"It is important to check the brooding pens and equipment to make sure they are adequate in every way for the job. Then secure a supply of fuel and feed a month before they will be needed. If you have not yet done so, make arrangements for your chicks so you can get them started a month earlier than last year. Do so at once. Remember, one February-hatched pullet, properly reared, will more than equal three hatched in June receiving equal care, in filling the fall contract for eggs.

"This challenge can be met as effectively as those in the past. Continuity of supply will help maintain continuity of demand. The poultry producers of Canada cannot afford to loose the outlet for eggs provided by the present British contract and their renewal. It is of vital importance to every producer of eggs in Canada, so let's prove the job can be done."

INSPIRATION FOUND IN CHURCH ARTICLE

J. JAY WATSON
During the proceedings of the Newmarket Monthly Meeting of Friends for December, consideration was given to an article from the Golden Rule Fellowship entitled A Most Impressive Thing. Its humanness and naturalness prompted the thought of seeking an opportunity for sharing the message with our community and wherever The Era and Express is read.

The need for this publicity is pointed to by the statement of a recent writer: "When one-third of the church carries the entire program and the other two-thirds turn up at Christmas or Easter, spiritual progress both in the church and the world is tremendously slowed down. If I couldn't find a good reason to go to church through the year, I'm sure my best reason wouldn't satisfy the Lord for my going on Easter morning. The church must strengthen the weak spots in its own armor."

A MOST IMPRESSIVE THING
By Rev. Alvin P. Swank
It was about two miles from our home to the little church of which father and mother were members. We went regularly and they taught me, as I grew up in the church, the importance and pleasure of worship. I have ever been grateful for this early training and now as father has gone, one of my impressive memories of him is his worship. It was the one thing, more than anything else, that made all about him so sacred and dear to me.

People do not impress us very much, despite their ability and brilliancy—they don't mean much to us until we see them at worship. We have many leaders today but they seem not to make great impressions upon their followers. We are not quite certain of their genuineness until we slip into the quiet of their lives and realize that they are vitally related to God.

We know that Washington, Lincoln, Roosevelt, Wamaker and other men have had a great hold upon American life because we have seen them at worship. A soldier from the world war tells how one day he went to the church. There on his knees before the altar was Marshal Foch. It spread among the soldiers and all who know about it and admired and respected the general as never before.

There is nothing that raises the a wife or children more than for each to see the other at worship. It inspires respect and confidence. When all the members of the family worship, a mutual trust develops which banishes such misunderstandings as break up many other homes. The sermon may not be the best. Your neighbor may not be perfect. But we are conscious of being in the Lord's house and seeking His blessing when we worship.

Let us not be afraid of being old-fashioned. It is all very well to "be a good fellow" and go with the crowd, but it doesn't wear. Such friendship soon fades. Those who make light of such fundamental human-divine relationships are like the loafers who would get one of their group intoxicated only to make fun of him. The ideas of "too busy", "no clothes", "Sunday is my only day", "there are hypocrites in the church", and many others are all nonsense—and we know it. You say, not as many people worship as once did. Maybe not. But it is true now as ever—the best people do. Not all worship alike, but it is the same seeking after God—the same binding of ourselves to the Almighty. It is the one thing that makes us most human and at the same time most divine. There is something about sincere worship that, whether people believe it or not, they admire and respect us the more for it.

O.A.C. Resumes Courses During Christmas Holidays

Resumption of short courses in various branches of agriculture at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, is announced by Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario minister of agriculture, and W. R. Reek, acting president of the O.A.C. These short courses could not be held last year because of the lack of accommodation at the college, but the provision of additional space has made possible their revival this month. The week's courses will be held from Dec. 27 to Jan. 3, and already there is a keen interest in registrations for the courses which are to be given.

Five courses are being provided during this period and they cover livestock, soils and crops, agricultural economics, beekeeping, farm mechanics and horticulture. As well as the regular horticultural short course, the college is offering a special two-day school for commercial florists, to be held on Dec. 30 and 31. During the courses, the students will be in residence at the college, and a charge of $10 for board and room in the dormitories and dining hall will be made.

Everyone should have a place for regular worship. It is like coming into the garden of God, breathing His holy atmosphere and inhaling the odor of the beautiful flowers of devotion and piety among His children. It brings heaven to earth. Every week is kissed by the tenderness of divine love. It is the one thing about people that impresses us; it is the one thing about ourselves of which we may be proud.

FLYING NO SAFER

—Windsor Star
Classifieds can help you.

There is no registration charge, but a fee of 50 cents will be payable, to cover the cost of evening entertainment and other activities fostered by the students. Inquiries regarding these courses should be made to W. D. Tolton, B.S.A., department of public relations, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

In addition to these courses of a week's duration, two other courses are offered. A course in poultry husbandry will be held from Jan. 2 to Jan. 31. Accommodation for practical work in this course is limited, so applications should be made at once to the poultry department at the O.A.C. From Jan. 2 to March 27, the dairy department at the O.A.C. will conduct a three months' short course for those interested in factory management and the manufacture of dairy products. In addition the college also offers an ice cream course, starting on March 31 and continuing until April 11, 1947. Applications for these courses should be sent directly to the dairy department, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.
